COURSE OUTLINE

Defining Globalisation

- Impact of globalisation on economic, social, cultural, and political landscape.

Key Drivers behind Globalisation

- Driving forces behind globalisation, including technology, trade, and policy decisions

History of Globalisation

Historical globalisation that shaped the interconnected world we live in today:

- Silk road (the ancient globalisation)
- The first wave (early 19th century to first world war)
- The second wave (end of first world war to second world war)
- The third wave (end of second world war to 2000)
- The fourth wave (integration of China into the world economy)

Rise of Deglobalisation

Contemporary shift towards deglobalisation, exploring various factors contributing to the reversal of global integration including:

- Widening income inequality
- Geopolitical tension between advanced economies and emerging markets
- Homogenization of culture
- Western-dominated political globalisation
- World-wide environmental problem

Current Trend

Economic implications of deglobalisation, including reshoring, supply chain transformations, and regional economic blocs.

- The effect of Trumponomics
- The world after Covid-19
- New era of cold war
- The risk and opportunities of a localise business environment
